HUMAN DIET AND NUTRITION

Compiled by Kay Rodgers

TB 89-5 July 1989

SCOPE Included in the study of nutrition are diet selection, nutrient content of foods, ingestion, digestion, absorption, transportation, metabolism, utilization of nutrients and food by the cells of the body, excretion, and the results of inadequate, deficient, or excessive nutrient intake.

The number of subject headings suggested in this Tracer Bullet is large because of the broad scope of the topic. Separate sections are provided for Handbooks and Tables, Encyclopedias and Dictionaries, and Specialized Texts. The Specialized Texts section allows for the inclusion of publications dealing with aspects of nutrition such as nutrition for various age groups, nutrition under special circumstances (e.g., pregnancy or specific diseases), and nutrition involving individual nutrients (e.g., carbohydrates or fats).

Related titles in the LC Science Tracer Bullet series include Allergy and Asthma (TB 89-7), Diabetes Mellitus (TB 86-6), Edible Wild Plants (TB 84-2), Food Additives (TB 82-1), Health Foods (TB 80-18), Hyperlipoproteinemia (TB 78-9), Hypertension (TB 76-10), Sports Medicine (TB 79-5), Unconventional Sources of Protein (TB 76-5), and Vitamins (TB 78-10). Not meant to be a comprehensive bibliography, this Tracer Bullet is designed--as the name of the series implies--to put the reader "on target."
